

At New Brooklyn Heights Landmark Office: More Brokers, Higher Tech for Expanding Market

Brown Harris Stevens has established a new and larger Brooklyn Heights office in a landmark building at 129 Montague Street, designed to meet the special needs of clients in this growing and changing market.

“With 6,000 square feet of space on two floors at the prime commercial corner of Henry Street, opposite our former location, our new facility provides the opportunity to accommodate twice the number of brokers and to equip them with the most advanced technical support,” says Brown Harris Stevens Executive Vice President

Christopher Thomas.

“The Brooklyn Heights residential market has long been known for the charm of its brownstone neighborhoods that have traditionally been served by brokers who have deep roots in the community. Our brokerage team has built strong ties to the neighborhood and a 25-year tradition of knowledgeable professional service,” Mr.

Thomas continues.

“We will be welcoming other experienced brokers who would like to join our outstanding group of seasoned specialists and share the benefits of our larger, modern quarters and cutting edge technology, as well as the prodigious resources and worldwide reach of the Brown Harris Stevens organization. Of particular interest is our affiliation with Christie’s Great Estates, the world’s largest and most prestigious worldwide network of luxury real estate sales specialists, with the marketing power of 600 offices worldwide. This is especially true as Brooklyn has become a viable alternative to Manhattan.

The new office, in its landmark building with a distinctive glazed terra cotta facade, is entered through a gracious reception area with a large, plasma-screen display, and comfortable conference room. The two levels are connected by a handsome decorative stairway in harmony with the 1930’s vintage architecture, as well as by a newly installed elevator. The second floor, with continuous windows overlooking Montague and Henry Streets, provides an attractive ambience for brokers’ offices and another conference room. Also provided are additional state-of-the-art 42” plasma screens, with access to up-to-the-minute Web-based listings and market information.
