Brown Harris Stevens, with agent Daniela V. Rivoir, hosted a cocktail reception and private viewing of artist Ron Ferri artwork at The Olympic Tower on Fifth Avenue. The aerial view of the city, as well as Central Park, from a magnificent apartment home at Olympic Tower made for a festive gathering of brokers and art enthusiasts.

The unique residence at Olympic Tower perfectly embodies a luxurious lifestyle, and the location is one of the most desired in the world. With 300-degree exposure, the apartment is in perfect condition and includes 32 nine-foot floor-to-ceiling windows, revealing incredible views with north, south and east exposures bathed in sunlight.

The guest of honor, artist Ron Ferri, has been a presence in the art world for more than four decades and currently has artwork in the Museum of Modern Art, the Smithsonian Museum, the Whitney Museum and the Musee D'Art Moderne in Paris.

In 2007, Ferri broke new ground when he partnered with Rolex to use technology as performance art and produce large-scale paintings on the sides of several European buildings, including the Triennale di Milano in Italy and the Tempelhof Airport in Berlin.
