Economic Growth Slows in NYC

- A slowdown in hiring and business investment kept both local and national growth restrained in the second quarter of 2016.

- The New York City economy grew at a 1.7% annual rate, down from the prior quarter, but still above the 1.1% national rate.

- This was the slowest rate of economic growth in NYC since the fourth quarter of 2013.

NYC Employment Rebounds in July

- After a timid second quarter, job growth picked up in NYC with almost 30,000 jobs added in July.

- Compared to July 2015, employment rose by 98,100, a 2.3% gain.

- Education and health services (+32,000) and leisure and hospitality (+25,500) added the most jobs over the past year.

Mortgage Rates Stagnant Over Past Month

- Rates for 30-year conforming mortgages averaged 3.43% during the week ending August 25, unchanged from the prior week.

- Sluggish economic growth has kept rates below 3.5% for the past nine weeks.

- One year ago, 30-year rates averaged 3.84%.
